

Department of Philosophy, University of Pardubice is pleased to announce a workshop

Love and its Objects

18th – 20th July 2013
Pardubice, Czech Republic

Organised in connection with the new edited volume on the philosophy of love and friendship
Love and its Objects. What Can We Care For?

(edited by Christian Maurer, Tony Milligan and Kamila Pacovská)

Confirmed Speakers

Katy Abramson; Adam Leite (Indiana University)
Self-hatred and Self-love

Aaron Ben-Ze'ev (University of Haifa)
Ain't Love Nothing But Sex Misspelled?
The Difference Between the Objects of Romantic Love and Sexual Desire

Jan Bransen (Radboud University Nijmegen)
Loving a Stranger

Daniel Gustafsson (The University of York)
The Love of Art

Tomáš Hejduk (University of Pardubice)
What Did Socrates Love?

Magdalena Hoffmann (University of Bern)
Loving Friends, Partners, Children, Why Relationship Structure Matters

Angelika Krebs (University of Basel)
Dialogical Love

Michael Kühler (Westfälische Wilhelms-Universität Münster)
Loving Persons. Activity and Passivity in Romantic Love

Christian Maurer (University of Fribourg)
On 'Love at First Sight'

Tony Milligan (University of Aberdeen)
Animals and the Depth of Love

Kamila Pacovská (University of Pardubice)
Loving Villains

Elizabeth Drummond Young (University of Edinburgh)
Love Reveals Persons as Irreplaceable
Related Themes From Raimond Gaita and Jean-Luc Marion

Workshop venue: Zámek 1, 530 02 Pardubice (Pardubice Chateau)

Organisers: Tomáš Hejduk, Kamila Pacovská. Workshop language: English. Web: <http://filosofie.upce.cz/en/>.

Attendance is free of charge. For registration and accommodation assistance please e-mail Kamila Pacovská (kamila.pacovska@upce.cz).